How would you describe your overall internship experience during your final year of faculty?

My internship experience was overall very positive. Since I started it a week after graduation, it didn't affect my studies, though the recruitment process during my final exams was a little bit stressful. Once I began, I started with training sessions and meeting my new team. Shortly after, I was assigned my first tasks and received constructive feedback, which helped me integrate smoothly into the workflow.

What were your main responsibilities during your internship, and how did they align with your expectations?

During my internship, my main responsibilities included creating content for new projects and being part of a team focused on developing new project ideas and goals. While I initially hoped to work on something related to clinical trials, I found that the creative nature of this position also suited me well and allowed me to contribute effectively.

How did the internship help you develop new skills, both professionally and personally?

It helped me strengthen my work ethic, improve my communication and presentation skills, and make it easier for me to follow the team's dynamics and collaborate more effectively.

How did you manage the demands of your internship while keeping up with your final-year studies?

As I mentioned earlier, I started my internship a week after graduation, so it didn't interfere with my studies. However, the recruitment process during my final exams was a little bit stressful, and I had to adjust my exam schedule accordingly to manage both effectively.

What advice would you give to current students who are about to start their internship or who are looking for one?

My advice to current students is to not be afraid of new challenges and to apply for internships as early as possible. An internship is a great opportunity to develop and strengthen your skills, both professionally and personally, and it can open doors to future opportunities.

If you could go back and change one thing about your internship experience, what would it be?

I would have applied for my internship earlier and tried not to let my fears about life and work after university hold me back. Embracing opportunities sooner would have made the transition easier and more fulfilling.
