How would you describe your overall internship experience during your final year of faculty?

During my final year of faculty, when I had already gained a lot of knowledge about clinical trials, the Accelsiors' internship program helped me to connect theory with practice and make the most of the valuable opportunity available to students.

This is a great experience, and I'm confident it will continue to benefit me in my career after graduation.

What were your main responsibilities during your internship, and how did they align with your expectations?

My main responsibilities are supporting the internal commercial interface with Accelsiors' customers and overseeing the company's Customer Relationship Management system (CRM). Considering that my responsibilities were clearly outlined before the start of the internship program and that they gradually increased with experience and time spent in the role, they were in line with my expectations.

How did the internship help you develop new skills, both professionally and personally?

The internship program helped me step up my time management skills. As my responsibilities at the company grew at certain times, as well as at university, I learned to organize my time in a way that allowed me to balance my studies and internship while still having enough time for friends and other extracurricular activities I participated in. Also, working in a team became part of my daily routine, during which, I learned to collaborate effectively with others.

How did you manage the demands of your internship while keeping up with your final-year studies?

In the beginning, I had a lot of training and regular meetings with my line manager, where we discussed upcoming tasks and the time I needed to complete them. Later on, I became more independent and began requesting additional tasks when I had the time. The program was very flexible and it could easily fit with the demands of my final year of study.

What advice would you give to current students who are about to start their internship or who are looking for one?

I would tell them not to be afraid to try something new during their studies. This program is a great opportunity to start focusing on their future career during their student days and explore one of the many fields of pharmacy. If you don't try it, you will never know if you like it.

If you could go back and change one thing about your internship experience, what would it be?

If I had to change one thing about my internship experience, it would be introducing more meetings that include interns, allowing us to stay updated on department activities beyond the weekly meetings. This would enhance our understanding of ongoing projects and our ability to contribute.
